

Nigel Cory

Associate Director for Trade Policy, Information Technology and Innovation Foundation

Nigel Cory is an associate director covering trade policy at the Information Technology and Innovation Foundation. He focuses on digital and high-tech trade, including cross-border data flows, data governance, intellectual property, and how they each relate to innovation and the broader digital economy. Cory has provided in-person testimony and written submissions and has published reports and op-eds relating to these issues in the United States, the European Union, Australia, China, India, and New Zealand, among other countries and regions, and he has completed research projects for international bodies such as the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation and the World Trade Organization. Cory previously worked as a researcher in the Southeast Asia Program at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. Prior to that, he worked for eight years in Australia's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade, which included positions working on G20 global economic and trade issues and postings to Malaysia and Afghanistan.

Mr. Cory has not previously testified before the Commission.