

Nis Grünberg
Lead Analyst, Mercator Institute for China Studies (MERICS)

Nis Grünberg's research focuses on state-party governance, elite politics as well as China's sustainable development. He has published on the Chinese energy sector and worked on state-owned enterprise reform.

Nis also coordinates research in the Politics & Society team at MERICS.

Before joining MERICS, Nis was a postdoctoral fellow at Copenhagen Business School (CBS) and the Sino-Danish Center, Beijing. He holds a PhD from CBS and BA and MA degrees in China Studies from Copenhagen University. He has also studied at Shanghai International Studies University, National University of Singapore, and Freie Universität Berlin.

Dr. Grünberg has not previously testified before the Commission.