Dr. Neil Jenkins

Chief Analytic Officer, Cyber Threat Alliance

Dr. Neil Jenkins is the Chief Analytic Officer at the Cyber Threat Alliance (CTA), where he leads analytic and operational collaboration efforts. He focuses on improving the quality of data sharing within CTA through both automated and human means, developing joint reports on the threat landscape, and managing operationally-focused working groups. Prior to his work at CTA, Jenkins held various roles within the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, where he led strategy, policy, and planning efforts around incident response and interagency campaigns. At the agency, he served as DHS's operational lead for election security efforts in the 2016 US election. He has also worked at the U.S. Department of Defense and the Center for Naval Analyses, where he spearheaded numerous initiatives tied to cybersecurity strategy, policy, and operational planning for both the public and private sectors. Neil received his Ph.D. in chemistry from Cornell University and his Bachelor of Science in chemistry and physics from Wake Forest University.

Dr. Jenkins has not previously testified before the Commission.