

Jeff Stoff
Founder, Redcliff Enterprises

Jeff Stoff is the founder of Redcliff Enterprises, a startup that seeks to build public-private partnerships dedicated to the protection of research and intellectual capital. Mr. Stoff spent 18 years in the US government as an analyst and linguist and is a recognized expert in technology protection issues. He has advised the National Security Council; Office of Director of National Intelligence (ODNI); DoD policy and intelligence leaders; the FBI; the departments of State, Commerce, and Energy; the National Science Foundation; and the National Institutes of Health. Stoff received two ODNI awards, including the National Counterintelligence and Security Center Director's Award for Excellence, as well as the 2020 FBI Director's Award for Excellence in Counterintelligence.

Stoff earned a master's degree in international affairs at the University of California San Diego and is a contributing author of China's Quest for Foreign Technology: Beyond Espionage (Routledge, 2020) and a coauthor of Global Engagement: Rethinking Risk in the Research Enterprise (Hoover Institution, 2020) and Eyes Wide Open: Ethical Risks in Research Collaboration with China (Hoover Institution, 2021).

Mr. Stoff not previously testified before the Commission.