

Meia Nouwens

Senior Fellow for Chinese Security and Defence Policy, International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)

Meia Nouwens is a Senior Fellow for Chinese Security and Defence Policy and head of the China Programme at the International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS). Ms. Nouwen possesses expertise in China's defense industry and innovation, cross-Strait relations, and China's regional and international relations. She also leads IISS research on China's Digital Silk Road and Belt and Road Initiative.

Prior to IISS, she worked for the European External Action Service as a policy officer in Taipei at the European Economic and Trade Office (European Union delegation) and as a trade analyst in the EU's delegation to New Zealand. She has also previously worked in private-sector consulting firms and international organizations on topics such as foreign policy, security and defense.

Ms. Nouwens holds a BA Hons in international relations and political science from Macquarie University, a master's in international relations and diplomacy from Leiden University in conjunction with the Clingendael Institute, and an MPhil in modern Chinese studies from the University of Oxford and Peking University. Ms. Nouwens is bilingual in English and Dutch, and is proficient in Mandarin, Spanish and French.

Ms. Nouwens has featured in the Financial Times, Politico, The Washington Post, Reuters, and Bloomberg UK, Breaking Defense, Defense News, BBC, The Japan Times, Nikkei Asia, The Diplomat, The Economist, NOS, Prospect Magazine, The Guardian, The Telegraph, among other news organizations.

Ms. Nouwens has not previously testified before the Commission.