

Phillip C. Saunders

Director, Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs, National Defense University

Dr. Phillip C. Saunders is Director of the Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs and a Distinguished Research Fellow at National Defense University's Institute for National Strategic Studies (INSS). He previously worked at the Monterey Institute of International Studies, where he directed the East Asia Nonproliferation Program from 1999-2003, and served as an officer in the United States Air Force from 1989-1993. Dr. Saunders received an A.B. in History from Harvard University and an MPA and PhD from the Princeton School of International and Public Affairs. Dr. Saunders is co-author with David Gompert of The Paradox of Power: Sino-American Strategic Restraint in an Era of Vulnerability (NDU Press, 2011). He has published in leading international relations, international security, Asian studies, and China journals and edited nine books on Asian security issues, including Crossing the Strait: China's Military Prepares for War with Taiwan (NDU Press, 2022) and The PLA Beyond Borders: Chinese Military Operations in Regional and Global Context (NDU Press, 2021). Dr. Saunders also edits the INSS China Strategic Perspectives monograph series and co-authored the most recent monograph, Averting Escalation and Avoiding War: Revisiting the Lessons of 1995-1996 (December 2022).

Dr. Saunders has testified before the Commission four times, including most recently at the 2019 hearing titled "A 'World-Class' Military: Assessing China's Global Military Ambitions."