

Moritz Rudolf

Research Scholar in Law and Fellow, Paul Tsai China Center, Yale Law School

Dr. Moritz Rudolf is a Research Scholar in Law and Fellow at Yale Law School’s Paul Tsai China Center, where he focuses on the implications of China’s rise for the international legal order. In 2020, he completed the Second German State Examination in Law and obtained his Ph.D. in international law from Humboldt University of Berlin. In 2021, he published a book titled “The Belt And Road Initiative: Implications For The International Order” which is based on his Ph.D. thesis. He was previously an Associate in the Asia Division of the German Institute for International and Security Affairs (SWP); Fellow at the Intlaw Research Group (KFG) “The International Rule of Law — Rise or Decline?,” which examines the role of international law in a changing global order; and Researcher at the Mercator Institute for China Studies (MERICS). He has studied law, Mandarin Chinese, and economics at Heidelberg University, Humboldt University of Berlin, Tsinghua University, and Beijing Language and Culture University.

Dr. Rudolf has not previously testified before the Commission.