

Ilaria Mazzocco

Senior Fellow, Trustee Chair in Chinese Business and Economics at the Center for Strategic and International Studies

Dr. Ilaria Mazzocco is a Senior Fellow with the Trustee Chair in Chinese Business and Economics at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS). Her work focuses on energy and sustainability in China and Asia. Prior to joining CSIS, she led research on Chinese climate and energy policy for MacroPolo, the Paulson Institute's think tank.

She holds a Ph.D. from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies (SAIS), where her dissertation investigated Chinese industrial policy by focusing on electric vehicle promotion efforts and the role of local governments. She also holds master's degrees from Johns Hopkins SAIS and Central European University and a bachelor's degree from Bard College.

Dr. Mazzocco has not previously testified before the Commission.