

Susan Stroud, Founder, No Bull Ag

Susan Stroud is the founder of No Bull Agriculture, an independent market intelligence firm delivering clear, data-driven insights for global commodity markets. With more than 15 years of experience across the U.S. grain supply chain—from country elevators to river terminals—she brings a practical, ground-level understanding of the industry. A graduate of Texas A&M University, Susan is widely recognized for her analysis of grain markets and renewable fuels, with commentary frequently featured by outlets such as Bloomberg and Barchart. She also hosts AgriNext, No Bull’s annual conference, and leads international industry trips through AgVentures.

Ms. Stroud has not previously testified before the Commission.