

Dr. Yu-wen Julie Chen

Visiting Scholar
University of Virginia

Dr. Chen is currently a Visiting Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson Department of Politics, University of Virginia. She previously taught at the University of Konstanz (Germany) at the Chair of International Politics in the Department of Politics and Management, and at the University of Greifswald (Germany). She is also an Honorary Research Fellow at the La Trobe University (Australia) Institute for Human Security.

Dr. Chen specializes mainly in research on ethnic politics, transnational advocacy networks, and interest group politics. She is currently conducting research entitled “The Rise of Group Interests and Evidences of Interest Articulation in China” through the National Science Foundation in Taiwan. She has also researched and published papers on Uyghur diasporic activism through the sponsorship of the Consortium of Non-Traditional Security Studies in Asia (Singapore) and the Sumitomo Foundation (Japan). She is the author of several books, including Transnational Cooperation of Ethnopolitical Mobilization: A Survey Analysis of European Ethnopolitical Groups, The Tug-of-War over Taiwan in the US: A Case Study of the Formosan Association for Public Affairs, Who have Played Tricks on Maps?, and Rivers and Bridges in Taipei. She has also written articles in the Taipei Times and been featured on Phoenix New Media in Hong Kong.