

Alan Hill is government relations partner for the National Graphene Association, an industry group working to develop policy and standards to commercialize the 2D material graphene. He has an extensive background in telecommunications and technology policy, serving as senior vice president of government relations and strategic business development for INCOMPAS (Internet and Competitive Networks Association), and director of legislative affairs at XO Communications. Prior to entering the private sector, Mr. Hill was legislative director for Congressman Cliff Stearns (R - FL, 1989-2013) and served on the staff of the House Energy and Commerce Committee. He holds a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Kentucky and is a graduate of the Naval War College's College of Naval Command and Staff in national security.

Mr. Hill has not previously testified before the Commission.