

Alan Wm. Wolff
Of Counsel, Dewey & LeBeouf, LLP

Alan Wolff co-chairs Dewey & LeBoeuf's International Trade Practice Group. The International Trade Practice Group represents clients involved in some of the most important trade issues of our day. The practice specializes in all aspects of seeking to improve the competitive position of major clients. The practice has been credited with helping to open international markets for American products, including semiconductors, computer parts, telecommunications equipment, soda ash and forest products, consumer photographic film and paper, and insurance and other services. The International Trade Practice Group is active in efforts to limit trade-distorting practices such as dumping and subsidies, private anticompetitive practices, violations of intellectual property rights and trade-related investment performance requirements. Major Cases included automobiles (1980), carbon steel (1980s and 1990s), lumber (1985-2009) and semiconductors (1980-2009). For many years he was outside counsel to the Labor Industry Coalition for International Trade, a group of key American companies and leading industrial unions seeking common ground on trade policy issues.

Mr. Wolff served as managing partner of the Washington, DC office of Dewey Ballantine from 1991 through September 2007, prior to the merger of that firm with LeBoeuf Lamb. He served as United States Deputy Special Representative for Trade Negotiations (1977-1979) in the Carter Administration, holding the rank of ambassador. As Deputy Trade Representative, he played a key role in the formulation of American trade policy and its implementation, including leading international trade negotiations for the United States. He served as General Counsel of the Agency from 1974-1977 (during the Nixon and Ford Administrations), and was responsible for drafting major trade legislation. From 1968-1973, Mr. Wolff was a lawyer dealing with international monetary, trade and development issues at the Treasury Department during the period that Paul Volcker was Under Secretary for Monetary Affairs.

Mr. Wolff is recognized in Chambers USA - America's Leading Lawyers and Chambers Global for International Trade: Trade Remedies & Trade Policy and is recognized in Best Lawyers in America 2009 as a leader in the field of International Trade and Finance Law. He is also included as a leading lawyer in Litigation: International Trade in Legal 500 US in 2008 and in The Lawdragon 500 Leading Lawyers in America 2008.

Alan Wm. Wolff is also a Distinguished Research Professor, Graduate School of International Policy and Management Director, International Trade and Development Policy Initiative at Monterey Institute of International Studies.
