

Timothy Grayson, Ph.D.

President, Fortitude Mission Research, LLC

Dr. Timothy Grayson is founder and president of Fortitude Mission Research LLC. Founded in June 2013, Fortitude is a consulting company specializing in strategy and technology analysis related to security and intelligence. Primary clients include the Defense Advanced Research Project Agency (DARPA) and other government agencies providing technology, strategy, and policy consulting. Outside the government sector, Dr. Grayson and Fortitude are developing new markets to bring government-like security and intelligence to the private sector in mission areas such as critical infrastructure protection, supply chain security, geospatial intelligence, and space systems and policy. Dr. Grayson is on the board of advisors of several small businesses in these sectors.

Prior to founding Fortitude, Dr. Grayson was a senior manager at Raytheon. Dr. Grayson also has extensive government experience. Dr. Grayson was a senior intelligence officer with the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). He also spent six years as a program manager at Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), where he initiated programs in space situation awareness, information operations, and tracking and locating. Dr. Grayson holds a Ph.D. in Physics from University of Rochester where he specialized in quantum optics and a B.S in Physics from University of Dayton with minors in mathematics and computer science.

Dr. Grayson has not previously testified before the Commission.
