

Ms. Angel Hsu
Doctoral Student, Yale University
New Haven, CT

Angel Hsu's research focuses on Chinese environmental performance measurement, governance, and policy.

Prior to coming to Yale, she was at the World Resources Institute (WRI), a non-profit environmental think tank in Washington, D.C., where she helped to develop corporate greenhouse gas reporting initiatives in developing countries and managed the GHG Protocol's programs in China.

She has a Master of Philosophy degree in Environmental Policy from the University of Cambridge and a BS in Biology and BA in Political Science from Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.