

Isaac B. Kardon

Assistant Professor, China Maritime Studies Institute, U.S. Naval War College

Isaac B. Kardon, Ph.D. (孔适海) is an Assistant Professor at the U.S Naval War College (NWC) in the Department of Strategic and Operational Research. He is a core member of the China Maritime Studies Institute (CMSI), where he researches and writes on maritime disputes, Indo-Pacific maritime security and commerce, China-Pakistan relations, and the law of the sea. Isaac also serves as managing editor of the CMSI Red Book series of monographs on Chinese maritime power and teaches classes on Chinese politics and foreign policy to American and foreign students at NWC.

Dr. Kardon was formerly a Research Analyst at the National Defense University's Center for the Study of Chinese Military Affairs (2009-2011), and a Visiting Scholar at NYU Law (2013-2014), the PRC National Institute for South China Sea Studies (2014), and Academia Sinica (2015). He earned a Ph.D. in Government from Cornell University (2017), an M.Phil in Modern Chinese Studies from Oxford University (2009), and a B.A. in History from Dartmouth College (2005). He studied Chinese (Mandarin) at Peking University, Tsinghua University, Hainan University, and National Taiwan Normal University.