

Lorand Laskai
Visiting Researcher, Center for Security and Emerging Technology

Lorand Laskai is a Visiting Researcher at the Center for Security and Emerging Technology (CSET), where he is currently researching China's progress in artificial intelligence and other emerging technologies.

He was previously a Research Associate at the Council on Foreign Relations. Before that, Mr. Laskai was the Lead Researcher for Danwei, the research division of the Financial Times in Beijing. He has written extensively on China and its approach towards cyberspace and high-tech development for publications like Foreign Affairs, Slate, China Brief, and Foreign Policy. His comments have appeared in the Financial Times, the Guardian, NPR, and other international media outlets.

Mr. Laskai earned his BA in Political Science from Swarthmore College in 2013. He is an incoming JD candidate at Yale Law School.

Mr. Laskai has not testified before the Commission.