

Dr. Dawn Murphy

Postdoctoral Research Fellow, Princeton-Harvard China and the World Program

Dr. Dawn Murphy is a Princeton-Harvard China and the World Postdoctoral Research Fellow at Princeton University. She specializes in Chinese foreign policy and international relations. Her current research analyzes China's interests and behavior as a rising global power towards the existing international order. At Princeton, she is working on a book manuscript titled "Rising Revisionist? China's Evolving Relations with the Middle East and Sub-Saharan Africa in the post-Cold War Era." The project is based on field work conducted as a Visiting Scholar with the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing, China; a Visiting Research Fellow with the American University in Cairo, Egypt; and a Visiting Researcher at Stellenbosch University's Centre for Chinese Studies in South Africa.

Dr. Murphy received her Bachelor of Science in Industrial and Labor Relations from Cornell University, Master of International Affairs from Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs, and Ph.D. in Political Science from George Washington University.
