

Dr. Murray Scot Tanner, Asia Analyst, China Strategic Issues Group, CNA

Murray Scot Tanner (Scot) is a Senior Research Scientist in the China Studies Division at CNA. Before joining CNA in 2008, Dr. Tanner served as Co-Chairman's Senior Staff Member for the Congressional-Executive Commission on China. He has also served as a Senior Political Scientist at the RAND Corporation, and Professor of Political Science at Western Michigan University. Scot has published widely on East Asian security affairs, and Chinese foreign and defense policy, internal security, policing, and human rights issues. His writings include Distracted Antagonists, Wary Partners: China and India Assess their Security Relations (CNA, Alexandria, VA., 2011); Chinese Economic Coercion Against Taiwan: A Tricky Weapon to Use (RAND, 2007); "The Missions of the People's Liberation Army Air Force," in Richard P. Hallion, et al, eds., The Chinese Air Force: Evolving Concepts, Roles, and Capabilities (2012), and "Principals and Secret Agents: Central vs. Local Control over Policing and Obstacles to 'Rule of Law,' in China," The China Quarterly (2007). Scot received his B.A. in political science and East Asian languages and literature, as well as his Ph.D. in political science, from the University of Michigan. He received intensive training in Chinese (Mandarin) at the Inter-University Program ("Stanford Center") at the National Taiwan University.
