

Mr. Alan H. Price, Partner, Wiley Rein

Mr. Price has more than 30 years of experience representing clients in high-profile, complex international trade regulatory matters, including trade litigation involving public and government relations issues. In addition to being chair of the firm's International Trade Practice, he heads the firm's antidumping and countervailing duty practice. He also counsels clients on bilateral and multilateral agreements, trade legislation, customs regulation, escape clause investigations, and WTO dispute resolution.

Mr. Price represents numerous domestic producers of steel, aluminum, renewable energy, and paper products in antidumping and countervailing duty investigations and disputes. He advises U.S. industry and the U.S. Trade Representative in connection with WTO disputes regarding China's raw material export restrictions. Moreover, he advises the USTR on bilateral and multilateral trade negotiations. Mr. Price has written papers on the Chinese government's support of the steel industry, including "The China Syndrome," "Money for Metal," and "Raw Deal." In September 2015, Mr. Price coauthored a white paper on treatment of China as a non-market economy.

He received a J.D. from the George Washington University Law School and a B.A. from the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Mr. Price testified before the U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission in 2006. In 2011, he testified before the Congressional-Executive Commission on China's failure to meet its WTO commitments.
