

Fred Gale

Senior Economist, Economic Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture

Dr. Fred Gale is a senior research economist with the Economic Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. His work focuses on China's international trade, commodity markets, and food industry. He has decades of experience analyzing China's agricultural trade policy and China's food security practices. He first joined the Economic Research Service in 1988 after receiving his PhD in economics from North Carolina State University.

Dr. Gale testified at the Commission's 2013 Hearing on China's Agriculture Policy and U.S. Access to China's Market.