

Mark Brinda, Partner, Bain and Company

Mark Brinda is a partner in the New York office of Bain & Company. He joined Bain in 2004 as a summer associate. Mark splits his time between Bain's Technology, Media and Telecom practice and Private Equity practice. He has particular subject matter expertise in cloud computing and has published multiple studies on the topic.

Prior to Bain, Mark was an analyst with ABN Amro in San Francisco, where he worked in the Technology Investment Banking Group on a variety of transactions.

Mark holds an MBA from the University of Chicago's Graduate School of Business where he focused on finance and economics. Mark is also a graduate of New York University, where he earned dual degrees in economics and philosophy.

Mr. Brinda has not testified before the Commission.